Television for Women 2016-11-10

television for women brings together emerging and established scholars to reconsider the question of television for women in the context of the 2000s when the potential meanings of both terms have expanded and changed so significantly in what ways might the concept of programming addressed explicitly to a group identified by gender still matter the essays in this collection take the existing scholarship in this field in significant new directions they expand its reach in terms of territory looking beyond for example the paradigmatic anglo american axis and also historical span additionally whilst the influential methodological formation of production text and audience is still visible here the new research in television for women frequently reconfigures that relationship the topics included here are far reaching from television as material culture at the british exhibition in the first half of the twentieth century women s roles in television production past and present to popular 1960s television such as the liver birds and in the twenty first century highly successful programmes including orange is the new black call the midwife one born every minute and wanted down under this book presents ground breaking research on historical and contemporary relationships between women and television around the world and is an ideal resource for students of television media and gender studies educational leadership has a rich history of epistemological debate from the theory movement of the 1950 1960s through to greenfield s critique of logical empiricism in the 1970s the emergence of bates and foster s critical theory of educational administration in the 1980s and evers and lakomski s naturalistic coherentism from 1990 to the present time debates about ways of knowing doing and being in the social world have been central to advancing scholarship however since the publication of evers and lakomski s work questions of the epistemological preliminaries of research have become somewhat marginalised this is not to suggest that such discussions are not taking place but rather that they have been sporadic and piecemeal in new directions in educational leadership theory the contributors sketch possible alternatives for advancing scholarship in educational leadership the coherence of this volume comes not from the adoption of a single theoretical lens but rather from its engagement with epistemology ontology and methodology the choice of the plural alternatives is deliberate and its use is to evoke the message that there is more than one way to advance knowledge the approaches adopted across this collection offer fruitful directions for the field and hopefully will stimulate substantive dialogue and debate in the interest of advancing knowledge this book was originally published as a special issue of educational philosophy and theory

New Directions in Educational Leadership Theory 2017-11-15

Propaganda and Nation Building 2017-04-28

this book examines the origins of ireland in its first independent incarnation the irish free state 1922 1937 it explores how contemporary public relations and propaganda techniques were used to construct an identity for this new state a state which after enduring seven years of insurrection and civil war became one of the most stable democracies in europe this stability the book argues was constructed not solely through policies enacted by governments but through the construction of a gaelic catholic and celtic national identity by shifting the perspective to how nation building was communicated it weaves an interdisciplinary narrative that initiates a new understanding of nation building providing insights of increasing relevance in current world events avoiding a simplistic cause and effect history of public relations the book examines the uses and effects of early public relations from a political and societal perspective and suggests that while governments were only modestly successful in their varied propaganda efforts cumulatively they facilitated a transition from violence to peace this will be of interest to researchers and advanced students with an interest in public relations propaganda studies nation building and irish studies
