Democratizing Global Governance 2009-01-01 it is exactly ten years since allen scott s 2001a edited collection global city regions trends theory policy became the antecedent to a resurgent interest among academic and policy communities in the city region concept in the book scott and his fellow contributors conceptually map and empirically demonstrate how at the beginning of the twenty first century there is a new and critically important kind of geography and institutional phenomenon on the world stage the global city region furthermore they use the concept of the global city region to set out how processes of global economic integration and accelerated urbanisation the defining features of globalization are serving to make traditional planning and policy strategies increasingly inadequate prompting scott to raise the important question what main governance tasks do global city regions face as they seek to preserve and enhance their wealth and well being a decade on we can argue that this question remains as important as ever maybe even more so this current paper argues how despite having more information and more knowledge of what mechanisms are in place and how different policymakers strategists and jurisdictions are attempting to construct new city regional governance arrangements by the very nature of academic inquiry this raises as many new questions as it has provided answers

Negotiated Governance and Public Policy in Ireland 2005-08-06 drawing on the author s unrivalled experience and expertise in both research and policy making this important new book provides a systematic assessment of the changing nature of local governance in britain and a conceptual framework for understanding the new governance of localities the author analyzes in detail what new labour has been trying to do to local governance and management and assesses how and why it has achieved only a mixed record of change the book concludes by providing a vision of good local governance and an assessment of future challenges for research and reform

Excellence in Corporate Governance 2009 for more than one hundred years governments have grappled with the complex problem of how to revitalize distressed urban areas in 1995 the original urban empowerment zones atlanta baltimore chicago detroit new york and philadelphia each received a 100 million federal block grant and access to a variety of market oriented policy tools to support the implementation of a ten year strategic plan to increase economic opportunities and promote sustainable community development in high poverty neighborhoods in collaborative governance for urban revitalization michael j rich and robert p stoker confront the puzzle of why the outcomes achieved by the original empowerment zones varied so widely given that each city had the same set of federal policy tools and resources and comparable neighborhood characteristics the authors analysis based on more than ten years of field research in atlanta and baltimore and extensive empirical analysis of ez processes and outcomes in all six cities shows that revitalization outcomes are best explained by the quality of local governance good local governance makes positive contributions to revitalization efforts while poor local governance retards progress while policy design and contextual factors are important how cities craft and carry out their strategies are critical determinants of successful revitalization rich and stoker find that good governance is often founded on public private cooperation a stance that argues against both the strongest critics of neoliberalism who see private enterprise as dangerous in principle and the strongest opponents of liberalism who would like to reduce the role of government

Global City-Region Governance, Ten Years On 2013 this paper sets the background to the special issue of the journal of empirical finance on challenges of corporate governance it identifies the alternative approaches that can be taken to solve agency problems stemming from asymmetries of information i ex post monitoring through audit and information provision ii ex ante monitoring through boards and iii incentivisation through the alignment of managerial incentives with shareholders it discusses how the uk and the us have responded to corporate failures and relates the development of regulation in these countries to the three alternative approaches it concludes with a discussion of three groups of challenges i understanding alternative regulatory approaches ii determining the importance of geo diversity of business culture and iii overcoming the problems of the political economy of corporate governance

Stats in Brief, 2004 2004 throughout the industrialised world universities have undergone remarkable changes since the mid 1980s in australia interest has been intense and publication of the enterprise university was very timely first published in 2001 it was the first systematic study of the australian system since the momentous dawkins reforms ten years earlier the book is grounded in case studies of most of the major australian universities the authors interviewed a large number of senior managers they also have taken account of global trends and have prepared the book in the light of international research on the university as an institution the authors contend that the modern university can be understood as an enterprise university characterised by corporate style executive leadership in a hard hitting conclusion they propose novel policies and directions for australia s higher education system

Challenges of Corporate Governance 2014 state controlled listed companies have always dominated chinese stock markets as a result of the rampant scandals related to them there have been voluminous academic efforts to explore their corporate governance underpinned by agency costs however these studies have yet to examine the phenomenon from the perspective of venture capital and adaptive efficiency during the last ten years despite china s remarkable progress in the development of its venture capital market its domestic venture capital has been marginalized by american competitors given the different performance between them the author contends that the corporate governance system of chinese state controlled listed companies has hampered the performance of the institutional factors which are responsible for the prosperity of american venture capital in chinese venture capital markets with the practice of american venture capital as the mirror he empirically demonstrates that chinese domestic venture capital lacks the four factors related to the success of their american counterparts large and independent funding application of incentive mechanisms efficient exit channels and a high risk tolerance level more importantly these defects as a whole are closely linked to the corporate governance of state controlled listed companies considering the potential negative consequences on economic and social development the author identifies policy reforms underway to harmonize agency costs and adaptive efficiency

The Enterprise University 2000-10 the eu faces a serious crisis of democratic legitimacy citizens believe that the eu is run by distant and non responsive political elites the eu s perceived lack of responsiveness to ordinary citizens poses a threat to its very survival this timely book presents a comprehensive account of how eu governments signal responsiveness to the interests of their citizens over european policies schneider develops and tests a theoretical framework of the intergovernmental dimension of responsive governance in the european union using evidence amassed over nearly ten years of multi method research the findings show that european cooperation in the council of the european union takes place in the shadow of national elections governments signal responsiveness to their publics by taking positions that are in the interests of politically relevant voters at the national level defending these positions throughout negotiations in the council and seeking appropriate policy outcomes at the eu level Thanks to You We are Better Together 2019 this book showcases how small scale renewable energy technologies such as solar panels cookstoves biogas digesters microhydro units and wind turbines are helping asia respond to a daunting set of energy governance challenges using extensive original research this book offers a compendium of the most interesting renewable energy case studies over the last ten years from one of the most diverse regions in the world through an in depth exploration of case studies in bangladesh china india laos indonesia malaysia mongolia nepal papua new guinea and sri lanka the authors highlight the applicability of different approaches and technologies and illuminates how household and commercial innovations occur or fail to occur within particular energy governance regimes it also uniquely explores successful case studies alongside failures or worst practice examples that are often just as revealing as those that met their targets based on these successes and failures the book presents twelve salient lessons for policymakers and practitioners wishing to expand energy access and raise standards of living in some of the world s poorest communities it also develops an innovative framework consisting of 42 distinct factors that explain why some energy development interventions accomplish all of their goals while others languish to achieve any

Venture Capital and the Corporate Governance of Chinese Listed Companies 2011-10-20 this concise and accessible new text offers original and insightful analysis of the policy paradigm informing international statebuilding interventions the book covers the theoretical frameworks and practices of international statebuilding the debates they have triggered and the way that international statebuilding has developed in the post cold war era spanning a broad remit of policy practices from post conflict peacebuilding to sustainable development and eu enlargement

chandler draws out how these policies have been cohered around the problematization of autonomy or self government rather than promoting democracy on the basis of the universal capacity of people for self rule international statebuilding assumes that people lack capacity to make their own judgements safely and therefore that democracy requires external intervention and the building of civil society and state institutional capacity chandler argues that this policy framework inverts traditional liberal democratic understandings of autonomy and freedom privileging governance over government and that the dominance of this policy perspective is a cause of concern for those who live in states involved in statebuilding as much as for those who are subject to these new regulatory frameworks encouraging readers to reflect upon the changing understanding of both state society relations and of the international sphere itself this work will be of great interest to all scholars of international relations international security and development

AI Leadership for Boards 2020-06-18 in conversations with people all over the world from government officials and business leaders to taxi drivers and schoolteachers blair sheppard global leader for strategy and leadership at pricewaterhousecoopers discovered they all had surprisingly similar concerns in this prescient and pragmatic book he and his team sum up these concerns in what they call the adapt framework asymmetry of wealth disruption wrought by the unexpected and often problematic consequences of technology age disparities stresses caused by very young or very old populations in developed and emerging countries populism as a symptom of the breakdown in global and national consensus and loss of trust in the institutions that underpin and stabilize society these concerns are in turn precipitating four crises a crisis of prosperity a crisis of technology a crisis of institutional legitimacy and a crisis of leadership sheppard and his team analyze the complex roots of these crises but they also offer solutions albeit often seemingly counterintuitive ones for example in an era of globalization we need to place a much greater emphasis on developing self sustaining local economies and as technology permeates our lives we need computer scientists and engineers conversant with sociology and psychology and poets who can code the authors argue persuasively that we have only a decade to make headway on these problems but if we tackle them now thoughtfully imaginatively creatively and energetically in ten years we could be looking at a dawn instead of darkness

Corporate Governance and Chairmanship 2002-10-03 over the past decade putting public services on line has been a focus of huge policy and financial investments aimed at providing more joined up service delivery for some this is part of a transformation that is bringing about a new era of integrated digital government for others digitalization means threats to privacy and security and a strengthening of bureaucracy in the uk and beyond front line service providers and citizens have been slow to take up digital services whilst major projects have floundered this book takes a fresh look at this vital area for public policy and practice informed by over ten years of original research on the inside of projects to put local services on line the authors combine cross disciplinary insights to provide a new social informatics perspective on digital government experiences in areas such as health and social care are used to illustrate the dangers of over integration when key decisions are left to system designers as they seek to integrate information in centralized systems the authors argue for a new architectural discourse to change the way that systems are deployed evolve and are governed this leads to the conclusion that increased coordination of public services in a digital economy is better achieved through federated rather than integrated services that recognize the infrastructural nature of information systems and the essential role of co production in their future evolution

Minority Governance in and beyond Europe 2014-11-28 during the past ten years the terms public sociology civil society and governance have been used with increasing frequency to describe a wide array of political and social practices nickel provides a critical clarification of the concepts of civil society and governance moving beyond traditional disciplinary boundaries with her unique international background in the practice of public service and social policy nickel is able to provide a nuanced explanation of how civil society and governance are interrelated and the implications for the organisation of knowledge and public life the book is framed in three parts part one explores the emergence of public sociology as an ideal as well as the broader public turn in the social sciences part two explores the changing relationship between government and civil society including non profit organisations part three draws these two themes together in an exploration of the politics of practice and relations of power

The Responsive Union 2018-10-31 the concepts of leadership and the specific role of government leadership in meeting the basic needs of the people seem poorly defined in many areas of african society many people in these poor societies seem desperate and anxious for service contrary to what many external observers may seem to think as a state of contentment this creates a management dilemma why government fails to deliver despite high expectations of the electorate the case of africa was studied using ghana as an example of such societies where one can observe phenomenon from examples of traditional leadership of chiefs with certain powers but limited responsibilities that may not be clearly defined for modern development of the society while recognizing traditional leadership people in these societies find themselves with shifted locus of power and control owing loyalty and allegiance to some other elected leaders who seem not concerned about the interests of the electorate even where very high taxes are collected and people have the money to pay for services the case of ghana was examined using a qualitative case study selected businesspersons were interviewed in the accra tema metropolitan area to examine their experiences expectations and perceptions of the leadership using one indicator of business performance the quality of utility service delivery regarding water electricity telephone and garbage as well known and found by the world bank and local private enterprise foundation pef and business groups electricity and telephone services are indispensable elements of any modern business in the 1990s the facsimile machine became part of modern business to enhance data delivery in addition to voice transmission and in 2006 the internet and electronic mail have become an almost integral part of global business communication for more than ten years the needs for these business tools become more critical if businesses have to compete at the global level in free enterprise markets usually imposed by western donor and lender conditions water and garbage service not only affect health in any society but in africa poor sewage treatment and open sewage are directly related to mosquito breeding and malaria malaria was reported to kill 15 000 children under five years of age and 2 000 pregnant women in 2005 and seem to reduce the average life expectancy of people in some sectors of the nation by more than six years ghanahomepage 2006 may 12 the research study on ghana by this author showed that inefficient service delivery was found to impact about 90 of businesses in almost all sectors despite a high 73 expectation from leadership despite the call for overseas investors first dial successful completion rate of telephone transmission from california to ghana was only 4 most fax machines tried were not functional and more than 95 of the participant business managers and owners used in the study did not have regular use of the internet fifty six 56 types of leadership perceptions based on the culture evolved and were grouped into common themes and compared with a similar study in the united states of america cultural factors were explored in order to understand the challenges in ghana s socio economic development compared with euro american and asian confucian cultures this book is based on a dissertation submitted in partial fulfillment of the requirements of the phd degree at capella university s school of business and technology organization and management leadership option in june 2006 i wish to acknowledge the help of capella university as well as the supervision of dr godwin igein and dr stephen tvorik of the school of business and technology and dr kwesi ngissah of oakland california who acted as outside dissertation committee member
