Coalitions and Alliances in Humans and Other Animals

2020-07-09 in Jews, Gentiles and Other Animals Mira Beth Wasserman undertakes a close reading of Avoda Zara, arguably the Talmud's most scandalous tractate, to uncover the hidden architecture of this classic work of Jewish religious thought. She proposes a new way of reading the Talmud that brings it into conversation with the humanities, including animal studies, the new materialisms, and other areas of critical theory that have been reshaping the understanding of what it is to be a human being. Even as it comments on the rabbinic laws that govern relations between Jews and non-Jews, Avoda Zara is also an attempt to reflect on what all people share in common and on how humans fit into a larger universe of animals and things. As is typical of the Talmud in general, it proceeds by incorporating a vast and confusing array of apparently digressive materials, but Wasserman demonstrates that there is a whole greater than the sum of the parts: a sustained effort to explore human identity and difference in centuries past. Avoda Zara has been a flashpoint in Jewish-Christian relations; it was partly due to its content that the Talmud was subject to burning and censorship by Christian authorities. Wasserman develops a twenty-first-century reading of the tractate that aims to reposition it as part of a broader quest to understand what connects human beings to each other and to the world around them.

Social Lives with Other Animals 2019-09-17 how can literary imagination help us engage with the lives of other animals the question represents one of the liveliest areas of inquiry in the humanities and mark payne seeks to answer it by exploring the relationship between human beings and other animals in writings from antiquity to the present ranging from ancient greek poets to modernists like ezra pound and william carlos williams payne considers how writers have used verse to communicate the experience of animal suffering created analogies between human and animal societies and imagined the kind of knowledge that would be possible if human beings could see themselves as animals see them the animal part also makes substantial contributions to the emerging discourse of the posthumanities payne offers detailed accounts of the tenuousness of the idea of the human in ancient literature and philosophy and then goes on to argue that close reading must remain a central practice of literary study if posthumanism is to articulate its own prehistory for it is only through fine grained literary interpretation that we can recover the poetic thinking about animals that has always existed alongside philosophical constructions of the human in sum the animal part marks a breakthrough in animal studies and offers a significant contribution to comparative poetics
